An Evening Echo.
Some go dreaming through the world half asleep and never get fully awake more than twice during their whole pilgrimage. Your powers of observation were never given you to lie idle. While there are so many objects of interest swarming upon your attention, can you for a moment shut your eyes in careless indifference?—J. W. PARKER.

Anyway, the garbage is being removed.

Governor Sulzer of New York, appears to have talked himself into an impeachment.

The chief trouble with Governor Sulzer, of New York, seems to be that he forgot to tie his goat. Tammany Hall now has the animal.

Boes Flynn, of Pittsburg, seems to have left something for the Lord at Armageddon in order to do a little scrapping on his own account.

It is a slow day in Washington when President Wilson does not discover some insidious organized desire to thwart a Wilson policy.

Bennett booms Bennett for Congress, while other Democratic candidates are booming themselves and being boomed. Will Bennett's boom break?

The Belbre bridge, between the Parkersburg State Journal and the Parkersburg Herald, seems to have been built out of something. A Parkersburg Belbre bridge company has been organized.

It is not much wonder that the call is growing louder for missionary work in undeveloped Pittsburg. Newspapers are still conducting straw ballot elections.

The situation in Mexico ought to be rather well clarified by this time. According to national administration statements it has been clearing considerably every day for the last three weeks.

Another peace treaty has been signed by representatives of Bulgaria, Roumania, Servia, Greece and Montenegro. Let it be hoped that this one "takes".

As we have been told so often that even the written law did not have much effect in Korea, it seems funny that a defendant in a criminal prosecution there should plead the unwritten law.

The Fairmont West Virginian is going from bad to worse. It is not even publishing any Luke McLuke editorials any more. The Parkersburg State Journal should see, to this.

The opening of three or four new barber shops here within the last few weeks have nothing to do with the grass not growing in the streets, but they certainly do have something to do with showing that hayseed whiskers are unpopular here.

Governor Sulzer, of New York has been held up as an ideal progressive Democrat. Indeed, it is really true that he has progressed himself, to the extent that he is in jeopardy of being thrown out of the governor's chair and disgraced forever.

One of the editorial writers on the Cumberland Valley News writes so constantly about schooners, gin rickies, thirst and the ice box that one is inclined to the suspicion that he is a dipsomaniac. He is writing in Cumberland, however, and that may account for it.

It may be supposed that ten years hence today the Connellsville and Uniontown, Pa., newspapers will be scrapping over their respective circulations inasmuch as they have kept continually at it during the last ten years. Those publications ought to leave off biting that old horse chestnut.

A Sundayized minister over at Salem, O., declared to a congregation that if there is no such place as hell he would like to help build one and spend some time shoveling coal on the fire over which the wicked men and women of the city should be roasted. He is a magnanimous soul to say the least.

Collections of Uncle Sam's internal revenue from all sources for the last fiscal year totalled more than $44 million dollars, a gain of nearly twenty-three million dollars over the preceding year. By the time Democratic pork and other grab bills are deducted, however, this vast sum will look something like thirty cents.

The earth is solid to him who walks to him who rides, says the Parkersburg State Journal. This reminds one of the old saying that it is much nicer to sit in a carriage and think how much nicer it is to sit in a carriage than it is to walk, than it is to walk and think how much nicer it is to sit in a carriage than it is to walk.

Garbage and Rubbish Question.
Injustice and inequity are inflicted by the Thomas W. Burke garbage franchise, which the city council bought. It did not intend to exist or which in consideration of the franchise that body may have overlooked, namely, the prohibition of the hauling of rubbish, boxes, trash and the like, except by Mr. Burke, or his agents and assigns. This injustice is found in the fact that ten or fifteen residents of the city of moderate means, who have made a livelihood the last several years in hauling boxes and the like, are thrown out of employment, a great hardship inflicted upon them without just cause. Anyone should be privileged to haul boxes, trash, rubbish and the like, collected within the city, to the crematory, where it should be received by the city and burned. The city authorities should take such steps as to provide against this right being taken away and made exclusive.

It would be just as unfair to say by law that only certain persons should haul trucks and the like as it is to undertake to give the right to haul boxes, rubbish, etc., to one many only or to grant exclusive right in that particular.

So far as the hauling of garbage alone is concerned, there should be regulation and sealed wagons or receptacles should be required in which to convey it. The man who hauls rubbish and boxes does not necessarily have to haul garbage, but if he does he should be required to conform to such regulations as will not menace public health.

As it was not the intention of the council to bring about such injustice as the Burke franchise will inflict, if it is operated as law, the city authorities should take immediate steps to remove the great hardship rubbish haulers have suffered the last few weeks. The Telegram believes that such steps will be taken and that the garbage feature will be separated and treated solely as a measure looking to the protection of health. As a matter of public protection the city authorities will be fully justified in fixing prices for both garbage and rubbish hauling. The rates named in the Burke franchise are not unreasonable. Mr. Burke's equipment is good and doubtless he will use diligence in the work. The rates, however, appearing as they do on the city records in the form of a franchise are scarcely fundamental law.

The question of justice and equity should obtain in this matter and so long as the city does not establish and maintain a garbage department, operating it on the plan of the water works department, regulation should be had with an earnest view of the protection of health and sanitation, but the Telegram iterates its advice that method should be equitable and just.

Mr. Burke's enterprise in equipping himself to handle garbage is to be commended and the public should show due appreciation so far as garbage hauling is concerned.

Mortgaging Your Income.
The devil of debt seems to be on the heels of a great many persons nowadays on account of the many seductive temptations there are to live beyond one's means. Getting into debt is putting a mortgage on your income. It is discounting tomorrow's independence for today's good time.

Debt is a quit claim to your wife's confidence, your children's ambitions and your own self-respect.

"Then what are we going to do?" says a chorus of young fellows and business men, and aspiring women and laborers and clerks and farmers and managers and hundreds more.

Do without.

It will take some stamina and courage.

But you will be able to hold your head up—and that's more than you can do now if you are head over heels in debt.

You will escape debt if you will plan your expenditures more systematically, and you won't need to be penurious, either. It will pay you to learn what you can do without and still get along with the full respect of your neighbors and friends.

Is there a mortgage on your salary before you earn it? If so, there is a way out.

Maintaining a bank account tends to prevent your getting into debt.

There are several reasons for this. In the first place, it provides you with surplus cash to use for emergencies, unexpected necessities, or even such luxuries as you feel you ought to have.

There is also the compound interest working for you all the time.

Moreover, such an account helps you mentally and morally by making you systematic in your business methods and teaching you how to say "No" to importunate present demands for money which you ought to save for future needs.

Of course, illness or other misfortune may come to you, and then your outgo will exceed your income, but if you have been wise and saved money you need not suffer for want of necessities and comforts.

Don't you think you will do better work when no one will come to you with a claim on next week's income?

Besides the actual amount of money you lay by and the compound interest it will earn, the practice of rigid economy will make you a better business man, a better man to your family and friends and a better citizen generally.

Of course, the conclusion must not be drawn that all kinds of debt are to be avoided at all times. For example, there is nothing disgraceful or unbusiness-like about such a debt as is involved in mortgaging your home when you buy it.

If you save regularly and gradually pay off the mortgage, you are only following the thrifty example of thousands of other ambitious persons.

If you have a mortgage to pay, adopt the plan of making regular deposits in a savings account to take care of the payments.

In this manner the interest on your mortgage will be partially paid for by the interest on your savings and you will find it much easier to meet your payments when due.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

But, Can He Be Led?
The citizen can be led to the Congressional Record but he can not be made to read.—Wheeling Register.

An Age of Strife.
While this is generally spoken of as an age of peace, it is of truth one of the bloodiest and most warlike for centuries. It has been seventy years since there was a time when the crash of artillery or the din of rifle fire was unheard.—Sistersville Review.

"Get the Hook."
It is evident that so vulnerable an individual as Governor Sulzer has no business to essay the role of tiger trainer in New York's political menagerie. The Tammany pet has been giving the governor's reputation some awful swipes during the last few days. The situation at Albany seems to call for the use of the hook.—Morgantown Post-Chronicle.

Has Much to Explain.
The discourse and details so far published certainly convey the impression that Governor Sulzer has a lot to explain. But it must be borne in mind that a powerful organization like Tammany can produce such evidence at will and in some cases can make a man legally guilty of crimes he never committed. If Governor Sulzer is guilty of half the things charged, he should be summarily removed from office, but the people will want absolute proof.—Wheeling News.

Huerta Right.
Everybody who reads this paper knows that it has no sympathy with the Huerta government in Mexico, one composed of plunderers and assassins, but we are compelled to say that as an independent proposition.

President Huerta is right in refusing to receive Lind as the representative of the United States, unless he comes with recognition for the so-called republic. It is difficult to see how officials treated with contempt, refused to be considered as such can take to their bosoms those who evidently look on them as usurpers and as unworthy of being recognized in a governmental capacity.—Parkersburg State Journal.

Letting the People Rule.
The manner in which Mayor Magee, of Pittsburg, chopped off the head of Public Works Director Armstrong because Armstrong had the hardihood to jump into the race for mayor of Pittsburg against the man backed by Messrs. Magee and Bill Flynn, the boss progressive of Pennsylvania, is an excellent example of the way the "Progressive" leaders "let the people rule"—their hypocritical yell for votes. Armstrong announced his candidacy for the nomination one day last week—the next day he was notified by the mayor that he had been dismissed from office.—Grafton Sentinel.

The Telegram Ditto.
Governor Henry D. Hatfield, a consistent and ardent advocate of good roads for West Virginia, calls upon the press of the state to take up the fight and present the subject to the people in an intelligent and convincing light. This, at least, is the weight of the governor's suggestion, with all of which the Herald-Dispatch heartily agrees. And the governor, a constant reader of the Herald-Dispatch, is, doubtless, aware of the truth of this assertion. We are glad, however, to assure His Excellency that the best efforts of the Herald-Dispatch will be at his disposal for the furtherance of any meritorious plan for extending good roads work in West Virginia.—Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

It's Team Work That Counts!

Manufacturers are absolutely dependant on retailers for the consumer sale of their goods. Retailers must have the manufactured products—and must have consumers to use them.

The retailer finds his most efficient and most economical shortcut to the consumer through advertising in the daily newspaper.

Retailers are ready to push those nationally distributed products advertised in their home newspapers—because the demand is made right here at home.

Manufacturer and retailer linked together in a definite newspaper campaign from a team that scores new records on the sales totals.

Retailers are urged to impress on manufacturers the advantage of cooperative advertising in papers like the Daily Telegram.

Merchants and manufacturers interested in local advertising for nationally distributed articles are invited to write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, World Building, New York.
